

Interested in ROBOTICS?

Then there is only one place to be this summer – Carnegie Mellon University's Robotics Institute!

Join students from around the world for the Robotics Institute Summer Scholars Program (RISS). RISS is an intensive, 10 week summer research program for talented undergraduate students. The program runs June 1st through August 15th at the Robotics Institute in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. You'll have the opportunity to participate in state-of-the-art research projects, interact with a diverse research team, and be mentored by RI scientists.

To learn more about the program and to apply, visit:

www.ri.cmu.edu/RISS

2013 RI Summer Scholars Cohort applications will be accepted December 1, 2012 to January 31, 2013.